Are You in Business or Busy-ness? Four Ways to Get Your Life Back on Purpose

Do you often feel that your life is out of control and you're just surviving? Do you look at your days off work as time to recover from the pressures of the week? Is it hard to find time for yourself and those important relationships in your life? Would you like to create some space to do the things that are important to you? In today's fast-paced world, we can fall unconsciously into the trap of busy-ness, which can lead to burn out and overwhelm. This presentation will give you insight into busy-ness, how to recognize it, and how to get your life back on purpose.

KEYNOTE SPEAKER Elaine J. Bailey, MA, MCIPD

WHY YOU SHOULD ATTEND

The Developmental Therapists in the NICU Conference is the only national conference designed to meet the needs of NICU therapists. Meeting attendees include occupational and physical therapists, speech language pathologists, child life specialists and developmental specialists. We strive to address "hot NICU topics," provide evidence-based solutions for common issues, and offer practical tools that may be immediately implemented in your units. Interactive presentations, concurrent sessions, and active participation from the audience make this conference unique.

Meeting highlights include:

- The treatment of Club Foot using the French physical therapy method
- Craniosacral therapy to facilitate and support infant feeding
- The use of body and head cooling in the treatment of hypoxic-ischemic encephalopathy (HIE)

Additional reasons to attend:

- Networking opportunities with colleagues from all over the country
- Three presentations dedicated to novice therapists
- Latest news on your national association for neonatal therapists
- New products and services relevant to neonatal therapy
- Breakfast and lunch is included in the tuition price for both days
- A convenient location with a free hotel shuttle for shopping and sightseeing during free time
